Just an FYI on a conference next June. You may have seen this already, it was just sent over through the Pease RAB coordinator.

Thanks,
Kelsey

Hi Roger, Jamie, & Ona,

I sent this email to Roger already, but wanted to keep you in the loop that we have officially set the date for our second national PFAS conference. It will be on June 10 & 11, 2019, at Northeastern University, in Boston, MA. It would be great if this info could be shared with the RAB members (some of them I have already emailed - EPA, DES).

Background info:

We helped organize the first national PFAS conference in June of 2017 and it was very successful. It was that conference that brought together so many community leaders from across the country that was the catalyst to the National PFAS Coalition forming. It was also a unique conference in that it brought together so many different types of people from across the country working on PFAS issues (community leaders, academics, environmental lawyers, journalists, physicians, policy makers, regulators, government officials, researchers, students, etc). It was an amazing experience that allowed for several relationships to be formed facilitating positive change over the last year. It also provided education on many different aspects of PFAS from several different perspectives. We are really happy to be putting on another event like this and we hope that you will save the date and consider joining us.

I have attached the save the date. I will keep spreading the word, but if you feel it is appropriate to email to the RAB, please feel free to do so. Anyone working on PFAS issues will benefit from the conference as it will cover many topics pertaining to PFAS.

Best,
Andrea
